Fr. Stephen's Reflections on Hardships and Trials

When James, the brother of our Lord, wrote his epistle, he included in it some of the most practical teachings in the New Testament. Some theologians have likened his letter to the wisdom literature of the Old Testament. He opens his letter by acknowledging that the people were scattered and hurting (James 1:1-2). Yet regardless of what was causing their pain, James did not want believers to view it as something negative. Instead, he encourages them to see their hardships as something that can produce positive results. After his opening greeting, we read, “Count it all joy, my brothers and sisters, when you meet trials of various kinds, for you know the testing of your faith produces steadfastness” (James 1:2).

I don't think James wrote those words because he didn't care about people's feelings. When we experience tragic circumstances, we do get discouraged. Yet James would remind us that there is something more significant going on than just our negative emotions.

In the next two verses, he explains that God has a plan to use trials as a means “...to make us perfect and complete, lacking nothing” (James 1:4). Therefore when we “suffer grief in all kinds of trials” (1 Peter 1:7), we can count it all joy because God will not waste any of our sorrows. In his bigger plan, he will “...make all things work together for good to those who love God and are called according to his purpose” (Romans 8:28).

Yours in Christ,

Due to Covid 19, church gatherings have been suspended until further notice

At the Marion house, Jean-Charles is successfully growing tomatoes on their deck. (The deer population is an issue.) Phyllis tends a flower garden. She is also making peach jam and has added pickling to her canning projects.

Throughout the summer, Donna McClung has worked at Emmanuel Thrift Shop cleaning, painting, and sorting donations in preparation for the re-opening which is planned for Mid-September. A recent one-day sale earned over $1,300, all of which goes to community outreach. We thank Donna for so faithfully representing us in this ministry.

Andrea Schmidt recently sold two watercolors at the Campbell House Art Gallery. Congratulations, Andrea!

If I can stop one heart from breaking,
 I shall not live in vain;
If I can ease one life the aching,
 Or cool one pain,
Or help one fainting robin
 into his nest again,
I shall not live in vain.

Emily Dickinson

A little boy opened the big family Bible. He was fascinated as he fingered through the old pages. Suddenly an object fell out of the Bible. He picked it up and looked at it. It was an old leaf that had been pressed between the pages.
“Mama, look what I found,” he called out.
“What have you got there, dear?”
With astonishment, the young boy answered, “I think it’s Adam’s underwear!”

My therapist told me the way to achieve true inner peace is to finish what I start. So far I have finished two bags of M&Ms and a chocolate cake. I feel better already. Dave Barry
